

SOURCES OF SUPPLY OF COMMODITIES COVERED
BY COMMERCIAL STANDARDS

The manufacturers herein listed have expressed their desire to supply material in accordance with certain commercial standards and their willingness to certify to the purchasers, upon request, that the material thus supplied complies with the requirements and tests of the commercial standards which have been set up by industry under the auspices of the Bureau of Standards.

The lists are continuously subject to revision and enlargement. From time to time additions are being made to both the number of lists of "willing-to-certify" manufacturers, and the number of manufacturers on the individual lists.

Purchasers who might be inclined to do business with unknown or untried manufacturers whose names appear on the "willing-to-certify" lists should not fail to insist upon receiving from such manufacturers properly signed certificates guaranteeing compliance with the commercial standards requirements.

In order to avoid delay and confusion, when placing orders and requesting certificates from "willing-to-certify" manufacturers, the correspondence should always be conducted with the individual officer of the company whose name appears on the "willing-to-certify" list. This officer can be assumed to be familiar with the commercial standard and with the plan for issuing certificates, whereas other officers of the same company may be unfamiliar therewith.

It is to be definitely understood that the certificates are to be issued by the manufacturers to the purchasers, and not to the Bureau of Standards which assumes no responsibility of any kind in connection with the transaction. The purchaser must take such steps as he considers desirable to determine whether or not the commodities delivered do actually comply with the commercial standards.

A list of all known commercial testing laboratories throughout the country classified according to commodities and localities, has been prepared by the Bureau of Standards for the convenience of both the producers and the consumers - the manufacturers and the purchasers. This list, together with a list of college research laboratories, is issued as Bureau of Standards Miscellaneous Publication No. 90, under the title, "Directory of Commercial Testing and College Research Laboratories." It is for sale exclusively by the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Price, 15 cents per copy.

February 15, 1930.

APPLICATION OF THE CERTIFICATION PLAN TO COMMERCIAL STANDARDS

Commercial standards are set up by industry itself as the basis for trade throughout the industry as a whole, including producers, distributors and consumers. The manufacturers, dealers, and users are asked to limit their transactions in commodities covered by commercial standards to those complying with these standards so far as they can conveniently do so.

Application of the certification plan to commercial standards has been in accordance with the formal request of the general conferences of industry which adopted these standards.

The groups of commodities covered by commercial standards together with numerical references to the individual commercial standards, are as follows:
