PROMULGATION

of

COMMERCIAL STANDARD CS108-43

TREADING AUTOMOBILE AND TRUCK TIRES

On September 16, 1942, at the instance of the National Institute of Treading Standards, a general conference of representative manufacturers, distributors, and users of automobile and truck tires adopted a recommended commercial standard for treading such tires. Those concerned have since accepted and approved the standard as shown herein for promulgation by the U. S. Department of Commerce, through the National Bureau of Standards.

The standard is effective for production from June 10, 1943.

Promulgation recommended.

Secretary of Commerce.

TREADING AUTOMOBILE AND TRUCK TIRES

PURPOSE

1. The purpose of this commercial standard is to provide a nationally recognized specification for treading automobile and truck tires as a basis for better understanding between producers and users; to protect purchasers against inferior materials and workmanship; to promote fair competition among treaders; to provide a basis for confidence in properly treaded tires, and for guaranteeing quality and workmanship; and to conserve materials by insuring durability and safety.

2. During the present war emergency, nothing in these specifications shall be construed to obstruct or interfere with the treading of tires submitted for treading under the rules of the Federal Government agencies empowered to regulate the tire industry as a war measure, when such tires do not meet the inspection requirements of this standard, except that treaded tires that do not meet the requirements of this standard shall not be sold as complying with the standard.

SCOPE

3. This commercial standard covers inspection of the tire to be treaded and the conditions necessary for satisfactory treading; condition of casing and quality of cement used; equipment; workmanship; and guarantee to the purchaser.

DEFINITIONS

4. For the purposes of this standard the term "treading" as used refers to replacement of worn rubber on a tire tread by processes known in the trade as "retreading", "full recapping", and "top-capping". These are defined¹ as follows:

Retreading.—Retreading refers to the process of removing all the old tread including the breaker, and replacing with new material.

Recapping.

Full recapping.—In full recapping the old tread is not removed as in retreading. Instead, the worn tire is rasped across the top of the tread and over the shoulders as far as the new rubber is to extend.

Top-capping.—In top-capping, only the top of the old tread is rasped. Capping stock with abrupt shoulders is used instead of camelback with tapered wings. By eliminating the wings, all the new rubber is applied just to the top of the tread—hence the name "top-cap."

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS²

5. Inspection of tire.—Inspection shall be made by a skilled operator, and shall include placing the tire on a proper spreader, distorting the natural contour of the tire sufficiently to expose any evidence of ply separation or other defects.

5a. Tires that have a separation between the plies shall not be acceptable for treading or recapping.

5b. Tire body shall be sound in fabric and beads as follows:

- (1) Four-ply Tires.—No plies under the breaker plies shall be worn through;
- (2) Six- and Eight-Ply Tires.—Shall not be worn through more than one ply under the breaker plies for length greater than 6 inches;
- (3) Ten Ply and Up.—Shall not be worn through more than two plies under the breaker plies for length greater than 6 inches.

In passenger-car tires, no break shall be of such size that more than three adjacent cords are broken, and no break shall extend through the carcass; no sectional repair shall have been made previously on the tire. In truck tires, breaks which can be and are repaired by vulcanized sectional repairs are permissible if guarantee is made of such sections specifically. Bead wire shall not be exposed, broken, or stretched.

6. Preparation of tire.

6a. Tire body shall be thoroughly dry.

6b. The old tread design shall be removed uniformly and the entire surface to which new rubber is to be applied shall be thoroughly roughened. Imbedded foreign matter shall be removed and small cuts through tread and nail holes shall be cleaned out, cemented, and filled with uncured gum. Larger injuries into or through cord body that weaken the tire shall be reinforced by cured-in patches of sufficient size and plies to restore cord body strength. Low spots in the tire are to be built up with padding stock to conform to the roughened tire contour. The roughened tire surface must be kept clean.³

7. Cement.—Cement, unless otherwise specified by Government restrictions, shall be of the quality purchased by the United States Army as follows: Cement shall contain not less than 0.55 pound of crude rubber per gallon of cement and shall contain no reclaim.

7a. Cement shall be allowed to dry thoroughly before tread rubber is applied. While drying, it should be kept free from dust and foreign matter.

8. Application.—Tread rubber shall be applied to the cemented surface in a manner to exclude trapped air and foreign matter.

9. Curing equipment.—Curing equipment shall be so designed and installed with sufficient source of heat—

- (1) That temperatures to within plus or minus 5° F tolerance will be maintained;
- (2) That circulating system shall provide adequate uniform drainage of condensate from the molds.

² The general requirements agree in substance with the Ten-Point Specification of the National Institute of Treading Standards.

³ The cords of rayon tires are covered with a special coating to provide union with the tread. In buffing rayon tires, care should be taken not to remove this coating. Rayon tires should be cemented immediately after buffing.

Curing equipment shall be equipped with instruments in good condition, located to indicate mold temperature accurately. It shall be so designed as to cure treaded tires without damaging distortion. It shall be of such design that direct heat at curing temperature is not applied through metal contact to the lower sidewalls and beads of the tire.

10. Thickness of undertread.—Sufficient new tread shall be applied to provide enough new undertread (that is, a thickness of new cured rubber under the base of the design) to support the design properly.

11. Curing temperature.—Curing temperature, time, and pressure shall accurately follow mold and rubber manufacturers' directions. A correlation between the curing characteristics of the camelback and the heating characteristics of the mold is necessary.

GUARANTEE AND LABELING

12. It is recommended that the following statement or its equivalent be included in contracts, invoices, and on labels or tags attached to treaded tires guaranteed to be in conformance with the commercial standard:

The ----- guarantees that this tire has been treaded in conformance with all requirements of Commercial Standard CS108-43, as issued by the National Bureau of Standards. The commercial standard covers the essential elements of treading except the camelback. The top-cap or recap on this tire is guaranteed to be free from defects of workmanship and materials and to give satisfactory service under normal operating conditions.

13. Figure 1 illustrates the use of an abbreviated guarantee statement on labels an organization of treaders has adopted for its members' use.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The standard is effective for production from June 10, 1943.

STANDING COMMITTEE

The following individuals comprise the membership of the standing committee, which is to review, prior to circulation for acceptance, revisions proposed to keep the standard abreast of progress. Comment concerning the standard and suggestions for revision, may be addressed to any member of the committee or to the Division of Trade Standards, National Bureau of Standards, which acts as secretary for the committee.

HISTORY OF PROJECT

On June 17, 1942, the National Institute of Treading Standards, an affiliate of the National Association of Independent Tire Dealers, Inc., requested the establishment of a commercial standard for treading automobile and truck tires, and submitted as a basis for such a standard a specification used by it in authorizing the use of the Institute's seal of approval.

A tentative draft of the proposed commercial standard, incorporating the requirements of the Institute's specification, was prepared and submitted for comment to a number of the leading firms engaged in treading tires and to a few manufacturers of equipment and materials used in treading. The comment was discussed with an official of the National Institute of Treading Standards, and the draft of a proposed commercial standard was prepared.

Under date of August 26, copies of the proposed commercial standard, with invitations to a general conference in Washington, D. C. on September 16, were mailed to all known treading shops, camelback and equipment manufacturers, transportation organizations, Government offices, and others believed to be concerned. The conference considered the proposed commercial standard in detail, voted constructive modifications, and recommended its circulation for written acceptance by the industry.

The recommended commercial standard was circulated for acceptance on October 8, and on May 10, 1943, the National Bureau of Standards announced that acceptances representing a satisfactory volume of business had been received. The commercial standard, designated CS108-43, became effective from June 10, 1943.

ACCEPTANCE OF COMMERCIAL STANDARD

If acceptance has not previously been filed, this sheet properly filled in, signed, and returned will provide for the recording of your organization as an acceptor of this commercial standard.

(Cut along this line)

TO THE ACCEPTOR

The following statements answer the usual questions arising in connection with the acceptance and its significance:

1. Enforcement.—Commercial standards are commodity specifications voluntarily established by mutual consent of those concerned. They present a common basis of understanding between the producer, distributor, and consumer and should not be confused with any plan of governmental regulation or control. The United States Department of Commerce has no regulatory power in the enforcement of their provisions, but since they represent the will of the interested groups as a whole, their provisions through usage soon become established as trade customs, and are made effective through incorporation into sales contracts by means of labels, invoices and the like.

2. The acceptor's responsibility.—The purpose of commercial standards is to establish for specific commodities, nationally recognized grades or consumer criteria and the benefits therefrom will be measurable in direct proportion to their general recognition and actual use. Instances will occur when it may be necessary to deviate from the standard and the signing of an acceptance does not preclude such departures; however, such signature indicates an intention to follow the commercial standard where practicable, in the production, distribution, or consumption of the article in question.

3. The Department's responsibility.—The major function performed by the Department of Commerce in the voluntary establishment of commercial standards on a Nation-wide basis is fourfold: first, to act as an unbiased coordinator to bring all interested parties together for the mutually satisfactory adjustment of trade standards; second, to supply such assistance and advice as past experience with similar programs may suggest; third, to canvass and record the extent of acceptance and adherence to the standard on the part of producers, distributors, and users; and fourth, after acceptance, to publish and promulgate the standard for the information and guidance of buyers and sellers of the commodity.

4. Announcement and promulgation.—When the standard has been endorsed by a satisfactory majority of production or consumption in the absence of active, valid opposition, the success of the project is announced. If, however, in the opinion of the standing committee or the Department of Commerce, the support of any standard is inadequate, the right is reserved to withhold promulgation and publication.

ACCEPTORS

The organizations and individuals listed below have accepted the commercial standard as their standard of practice in the production, distribution, and use of treaded automobile and truck tires. Such endorsement does not signify that they may not find it necessary to deviate from the standard, nor that treaders so listed guarantee all tires treaded by them to conform with the requirements of this standard. Therefore specific evidence of conformity should be obtained where required.
